

Stellar activity effects on EChO observations

Giusi Micela - INAF Osservatorio Astronomico di Palermo, Italy

Stellar activity is the major source of astrophysical noise of the EChO observations. We will take advantage of spectral and timing properties of activity to correct its effects on planetary spectra. In this talk we will present some procedures that will be implemented in the analysis of EChO spectra.